Harris-Ahrens

Word has been received of the marriage of Raymond A. Harris of St. Cloud to Miss Alice Marie Ahrens of St. Paul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Ahrens of Estherville, Ia., at St. Paul, June 7. Mr. Harris is a brother of Mrs. David L. Frayer, South Eighth street.

The bride was gowned in an ivory satin and old lace dress and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Sixty guests attended the reception which was held following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. David L. Frayer of the city being among the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Harris will make their home in St. Cloud.

Bethlehem Mission Circle No. 3

Mission Circle No. 3 of the Bethlehem Lutheran church will meet tomorrow, Thursday, afternoon with Mrs. H. M. Olson, 1415 Quince street.

FAST TIME

Farmer (watching elevator indicator)—Gosh! How time does fly here in the city!

Soothing Thought

Little Willie had a temper on. He would not stop his shrieking; A dose of mead and then to bed, Paragorically speaking!

Seeking His Orders

Irate Man—You little shrimp! You swore at my wife! Give an apology now or take a beating!

The Little Guy—W-will you let me phone my wife and ask her which I shall choose?

Quite the Opposite

Mr. Goodpatter—You are getting on in years. You should turn your thoughts toward heaven.

Mr. Oldsmith—On the contrary, I'm thinking of getting married again.

A Monopoly

Homestopper—When in Rome did you do as Romans did?

Benabroad—Nope! They wouldn't let me peddle souvenirs and act as guide and graft on the tourists.

A Kind of Fruit

Shorty—So you call yourself a vegetarian and here you are working on a beefsteak with onions.

Fatty—Yes; you may call this a beefsteak, but I call it forbidden fruit.

His Extreme Need

Mrs. Goodpatter—Here's a quarter. Now, don't spend it for moonshine.

P. Handier—No, lady, I won't. I'll put it wit' a fund, I'm savin' to pay me income tax.

All Wrong

The Primary Result

THE results of the primary election of Tuesday, says the Minneapolis Journal, were, as usual with the direct primary, both good and—not so good. The Senatorial contest naturally held the center of interest. The renomination of Senator Schall was decisively accomplished in a light vote. He still has the election hurdle to surmount.

Governor Christianson entered the contest with several handicaps. He had lost friends because of a number of things he had thought it wise to do as Governor—the veto of the school appropriations, the controversy with the Board of Regents of the University, the handling of certain appointments including the dismissal of Jay Gould as State Game and Fish Commissioner, his steady opposition to completion of the highway system by a State bond issue, and so on. The effect of these things through nearly six years as Governor was cumulative. Then the scandal in the Securities Commission and its sequels doubtless had no little weight. The Governor's excellent record in more important respects, as in reduction of state taxes and efficient administrative methods, was apparently lost sight of.

And in the campaign it developed that the Governor stood for very much the same things the Senator did—especially support of the debenture and opposition to the Tariff Bill. This made the contest one of personalities, and left the Hoover Republicans of Minnesota with nowhere to go. Many of them didn't vote at all. The characteristic Schall campaign of vituperation also had its effect. Some of the mud stuck, however undeservedly. The politicians were largely against the Governor, and in a primary with a light vote that opposition was powerful.

And so, when Theodore Christianson leaves the State Capitol, he will also leave public life—at least for the present. He has been a powerful figure and has left his impress indelibly on the affairs and methods of the State.

The result of the Governorship contest is a happy one. Ray P. Chase is perhaps the best equipped public man in the State for the conduct of that great office. His service in the Auditor's office has been long and signally efficient. He knows his Minnesota, and especially its problems of taxation and conservation. Among all the Republican candidates he is the one best able to defeat the Farmer-Labor candidate, Floyd Olson, in November.

His primary campaign was unique. It was made without a campaign fund, without a manager, without showy polemics. He discussed the State's problems in exactly the same way and with the same wealth of information and pertinency of plans that he has been using in their discussion for the last six years or more. He attacked no one and indulged in no personalities. Very likely he could have been nominated without saying a word, for the State had long since taken his measure and appreciated his ability, his integrity, his industry.

Wonderful Singing

THE festival concert given Saturday evening at the high school auditorium by the Northwestern Division, American Union of Swedish Singers, was a notable one and the attendance should have been larger. The singing was of a high order. The convention chorus singing was under the direction of Director-in-chief John A. Bloom. Folk songs of the homeland were given with that spirit and precision which denoted rehearsals had been conducted faithfully. The large proportion had memorized all compositions.

The convention brought many visitors to the city. The Brainerd Glee club, convention host, is to be commended for the success it achieved, all arrangements being carried out promptly. Every part of the program contributed to a most enjoyable and memorable event in local convention annals. A large number of the delegates and their friends made the trip by automobile.

New Election Hours

NEW election hours at the polls seem to have been helpful in many ways. It has been done to facilitate the work of judges and clerks and to permit earlier reports to be made.

Take presidential elections of the past. The boards of Minnesota were still engaged in counting votes while Eastern states with earlier closing hours had their returns appear in the papers. Minnesota always lagged behind with its reports and people with earlier closing hours considered Minnesota a slow state in reporting returns.

Renting the Tourist Park

THE DISPATCH believes that the City Council and Park Board are fully competent and able to cope with the matter of renting the Tourist Park, and the interests of the citizens of Brainerd as well as the visiting tourists will be looked after with fidelity and care.

In this issue of the paper is published the proposed lease and it should be studied by the citizens. It is for a short term period and the interests of public and tourists seem to be preserved.

Primary Election

WITH the primary election out of the way, it is believed no traces of bitterness or ill feeling were developed during the campaign. The campaign locally and in the county was conducted with a spirit of fairness and there was an absence of any bitter conduct. Every candidate ran on his own merits.

Printers ink was liberally used and the publicity gained set the candidate squarely before the public.

BABY beef cattle may be fed molasses if experiments which will be described at the annual Cattle Feeder's day at the University of Minnesota, June 25, are successful. Rations including varying contents of molasses have been fed to six groups of fat calves and the animals will be exhibited at the University Farm. This diet will no doubt produce sweet baby beef.

JUNE is here, but the month, so far as temperature is concerned, appears to be a fragile thing. We have had no real hot weather this season.

"SHEIK'S WIFE"

BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER LII.

EVER spent the day wandering about the house, looking over old letters, little keepsakes, things that meant Ken to her. She sorted them, put some in her trunk, laid others on the logs in the grate. Only a matter of time now. Nory had meant well with his plan, but it was getting them nowhere. Ken didn't even know that she was supposed to be caught in a violent flirtation with his best friend.

Ken would go to Hilltop House every day now, as he had gone over to Spring Garden when Puss Southwick was there. And one day after he had left she would write a little note—a friendly note, for she would take no bitter leaving—and then she would pack her bag and go. Move over to Stonywall; try to find peace there, forget heartache.

It was only when she came up against the question of when that Eve's planning had still. She could imagine no definite time for her departure, not even in her more courageous moments. Ken returned early, came in looking rather eager, rather conscience-stricken. He found Eve sitting in the guest chamber darning a pair of his socks and stood there at her side a moment before he laid a florist's box on her lap, bent down and kissed the top of her head and moved away without a word.

Spring flowers in the box—jonquils, tulips, fragrant narcissus, all cool and dewy and sweet amidst green tissue wrappings. Eve held them to her face, wept over them before she could put them in water, carry them out to the living room.

"Thank you, Ken. Nice of you to think of me."
"I always think of you, Eve."
"Oh—"

He did believe it at this moment. The hopelessness of everything! Nory insisted tactfully, gently, that the flirtation had not been given sufficient trial. "What an impatient Griselda I picked for my pal! Use your very excellent thinking apparatus, my dear, and don't get panicky. Old Nory knows."

"What would I do without you, Nory?"
The deep look in his eyes wrapped her warmly, lingered, grew softly luminous before his gaze turned away.

He began to make a great point of having her help with his new story—kept her at this when she would have put it aside, insisted on her doing at least half the work.

"Our story, Eve. Fifty-fifty—fair enough, isn't it? Always wanted a collaborator but never expected such a charming one. A good reason for this. Besides it's pretty soft for me, sitting back and giving orders. Never had a story slide along so smoothly before."

Eve knew he meant it. Only when she was deep in this work could she forget her troubles, get the thought of Ken out of her mind. Accordingly she sought the most difficult tasks; poured over encyclopedias, the dictionary; studied Nory's characters until they were living, breathing people for her—so real she could hear what they would say, see their actions, expressions. She gave these visions to Nory and he painted his word portraits accordingly.

The night of the April fool party at the Pen and Brush Club Ken was finishing the last of the pictures for which Lilas was to pose.

"Sorry I can't take you over, Eve—d'you mind? Li is leaving in the morning—going to Atlantic City—and I've got to finish up this evening. Show up later if it's all right."

"It's all right, Ken."
Something in the dreary acquiescence of his bright head quivered, hesitated as the picture was leaving. "Sure you mean that? I'll stay—let the picture go hang—"

"Oh, go on, Ken. I'll be all right." She managed to laugh and on an impulse ran across to him, gave him a butterfly kiss, ran back to the bedroom and her dressing still laughing though her eyes were brimming.

Nory took her to the party. He chuckled all the way, warned her not to be surprised at anything. And once in the club lounge he led her to the bulletin board before which a crowd was chattering excitedly.

They made way for Eve; she stood there looking at a jacket tacked to the board. The cover for Nory's new book. A mauve cover with the title in violet lettering, "Trained Seal," across the back. Beneath it the by-line, "Norwood O'Reilly. And beneath that, 'And Evelyn Reade Winslow.'"

She waited, staring, growing hot and cold by turns, uncertain whether to laugh or cry. And after a little Nory slipped an arm around her shoulders, led her away, whispering.

"Your book, too, dryad. Your book as much as mine. Don't look like that—so bowled over. Aren't you happy?"
"Of course, Nory. . . Yes. . ."
"Remember—every other dance with me. Raise the dust. . ."
"Yes, Nory. Every other dance. . ."

Kenneth had told Eve that he would show up at the club before the party had really started and he fully intended to keep his promise. He even explained to Lilas when they had made the engagement for the evening over the telephone that he would have to hurry away. He knew in a manner he considered very tactful that he would take it as a kindness if she would be ready for work the moment he arrived.

It was beginning to dawn upon Ken that Lilas gave very little consideration to his part of the job of putting her exotic self on paper; she seemed to look upon the artistic feature of the enterprise as exclusively her own, with Ken performing only a small and rather unimportant part of the work.

At first he had considered her possessive manner and her way of saying "my picture" very fascinating, but it had begun to irritate him of late, particularly when she would leave her pose to criticize, insist upon changes to those touches which stamped his work peculiarly his own.

There had been growing within him an uneasy feeling about his last couple of paintings. It seemed they lacked character—certainly they showed none of the bold dash of other things he had done. And it did not help his confidence that Wade received them without a word, studied them with eyes screwed together and pursed lips.

He told himself angrily that Wade was sore because he had refused to do the sketches. . . Well, he had a right to refuse. But this did not help the restlessness.

Ken had liked the sketches just at first. Had a whale of a good time putting them out. Eve had been for them—kept urging him on. She hadn't said anything about this of late. Come to think it over, Eve hadn't said much regarding his work for a long while. And she used to be bubbling over all the time. Sort of odd. Of course he had been rather beastly about her sending the sketches when he expected her to mail the other stuff instead. Was she holding a grudge about this? Women! Only that was not like Eve.

Ken was confused, vaguely ill humored when he arrived at Hilltop House. And it did not soothe him to find that Lilas had made no preparation for work. The maid took him to the dining room, where she was finishing dinner; she insisted that he wait while she drank leisurely cup of coffee—made him join her, though she could see how impatient he was.

A chap couldn't do any too much at night at best. . . Why the dickens couldn't she have waited over a day? Not as if there were any reason for her rushing off. . .

Matters were no better when they went to the studio. Ken got ready the easel, arranged the lights, placed the massive high-backed chair in which she was to pose. And still she fussed before the mirror, wandered about lighting cigarettes, tossed them away, talking of things which had nothing to do with the picture, loitering near him. He never had thought Lilas a pawing person, but tonight he could have sworn that she wished to be kissed. . . Good Lord, couldn't she see this was serious business?

"Better get going, Li," he urged finally. "It's after nine."
She shrugged, moved over to the chair, seated herself. It took him less than five minutes to see that he could expect no help from her. She sat there indifferently, with the mocking little smile in her eyes, curving her too-red lips. . . What in the name of good sense did she paint her lips like that for, so they looked smeared and sticky? Eve never made such a mess of herself. . .

Over and over he tried to recapture his idealized concept of Lilas. Allen tried to dribble through his brush the enchantment she had meant to him. But the magic was gone. His work was lifeless.

WABEDU

A. H. Glandon of Boy River, a former resident of Wabedo, passed away Monday afternoon at the home of his grandson, Eugene Glandon. Mr. Glandon was in his usual health and in the afternoon asked his little great granddaughter to read a chapter from the Bible to him while he lay down to rest and when the chapter was finished the little girl looked up to see grandpa was asleep. A little later Mrs. Eugene Glandon went in and found that grandpa had passed away while sleeping. He leaves one brother, George Glandon, Sr., one son, George Glandon, Jr., three grandchildren and six great grandchildren to mourn his loss. His wife preceded him in death 18 years ago. His brother, George Glandon of Red Oak, Ia., came to attend the funeral. Funeral services were in the hall at Boy River and he was laid to rest beside his wife in the Bremer cemetery Thursday morning. Mr. Glandon was 81 years and one month of age at the time of his death. He came to Minnesota 27 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. S. Whitted went to Boy River Thursday to attend the funeral of Alex Glandon. They returned home Friday. Joe Bruckelmeyer spent Thursday evening at the Gust Zaske home listening to the prize fight over the radio. Pete Allen and Claude Whitted were at Frank Hardy's Thursday night and listened in on the radio. Mrs. Fields and son Harvey of St. Paul came up Thursday to spend the summer at the Atwood cabin on Wabedo Lake. Ralph Felton worked on Wm. Shepard's car Sunday. The Paul, Calrow family of St. Paul came up Saturday night to spend the summer at their cabin on Wabedo Lake. The Harbo family arrived Friday to spend the summer at their cottage on Wabedo Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Whitted and Dorothy Glandon took supper Saturday evening at the Ernest Siltman home. Joe Bruckelmeyer was a Backus visitor Saturday.

Mrs. Gust Bleisner and two little girls spent Sunday with Mrs. R. F. Felton.

Everett Felton of Pine River made his first trip Sunday morning with his Sunday papers.

The Primary Result

THE results of the primary election of Tuesday, says the Minneapolis Journal, were, as usual with the direct primary, both good and—not so good. The Senatorial contest naturally held the center of interest. The renomination of Senator Schall was decisively accomplished in a light vote. He still has the election hurdle to surmount.

Governor Christianson entered the contest with several handicaps. He had lost friends because of a number of things he had thought it wise to do as Governor—the veto of the school appropriations, the controversy with the Board of Regents of the University, the handling of certain appointments including the dismissal of Jay Gould as State Game and Fish Commissioner, his steady opposition to completion of the highway system by a State bond issue, and so on. The effect of these things through nearly six years as Governor was cumulative. Then the scandal in the Securities Commission and its sequels doubtless had no little weight. The Governor's excellent record in more important respects, as in reduction of state taxes and efficient administrative methods, was apparently lost sight of.

And in the campaign it developed that the Governor stood for very much the same things the Senator did—especially support of the debenture and opposition to the Tariff Bill. This made the contest one of personalities, and left the Hoover Republicans of Minnesota with nowhere to go. Many of them didn't vote at all. The characteristic Schall campaign of vituperation also had its effect. Some of the mud stuck, however undeservedly. The politicians were largely against the Governor, and in a primary with a light vote that opposition was powerful.

And so, when Theodore Christianson leaves the State Capitol, he will also leave public life—at least for the present. He has been a powerful figure and has left his impress indelibly on the affairs and methods of the State.

The result of the Governorship contest is a happy one. Ray P. Chase is perhaps the best equipped public man in the State for the conduct of that great office. His service in the Auditor's office has been long and signally efficient. He knows his Minnesota, and especially its problems of taxation and conservation. Among all the Republican candidates he is the one best able to defeat the Farmer-Labor candidate, Floyd Olson, in November.

His primary campaign was unique. It was made without a campaign fund, without a manager, without showy polemics. He discussed the State's problems in exactly the same way and with the same wealth of information and pertinency of plans that he has been using in their discussion for the last six years or more. He attacked no one and indulged in no personalities. Very likely he could have been nominated without saying a word, for the State had long since taken his measure and appreciated his ability, his integrity, his industry.

Wonderful Singing

THE festival concert given Saturday evening at the high school auditorium by the Northwestern Division, American Union of Swedish Singers, was a notable one and the attendance should have been larger. The singing was of a high order. The convention chorus singing was under the direction of Director-in-chief John A. Bloom. Folk songs of the homeland were given with that spirit and precision which denoted rehearsals had been conducted faithfully. The large proportion had memorized all compositions. The convention brought many visitors to the city. The Brainerd Glee club, convention host, is to be commended for the success it achieved, all arrangements being carried out promptly. Every part of the program contributed to a most enjoyable and memorable event in local convention annals. A large number of the delegates and their friends made the trip by automobile.

New Election Hours

NEW election hours at the polls seem to have been helpful in many ways. It has been done to facilitate the work of judges and clerks and to permit earlier reports to be made.

Take presidential elections of the past. The boards of Minnesota were still engaged in counting votes while Eastern states with earlier closing hours had their returns appear in the papers. Minnesota always lagged behind with its reports and people with earlier closing hours considered Minnesota a slow state in reporting returns.

Renting the Tourist Park

THE DISPATCH believes that the City Council and Park Board are fully competent and able to cope with the matter of renting the Tourist Park, and the interests of the citizens of Brainerd as well as the visiting tourists will be looked after with fidelity and care.

In this issue of the paper is published the proposed lease and it should be studied by the citizens. It is for a short term period and the interests of public and tourists seem to be preserved.

Primary Election

WITH the primary election out of the way, it is believed no traces of bitterness or ill feeling were developed during the campaign. The campaign locally and in the county was conducted with a spirit of fairness and there was an absence of any bitter conduct. Every candidate ran on his own merits.

Printers ink was liberally used and the publicity gained set the candidate squarely before the public.

BABY beef cattle may be fed molasses if experiments which will be described at the annual Cattle Feeder's day at the University of Minnesota, June 25, are successful. Rations including varying contents of molasses have been fed to six groups of fat calves and the animals will be exhibited at the University Farm. This diet will no doubt produce sweet baby beef.

JUNE is here, but the month, so far as temperature is concerned, appears to be a fragile thing. We have had no real hot weather this season.

"SHEIK'S WIFE"

BY WINFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER LII.

EVER spent the day wandering about the house, looking over old letters, little keepsakes, things that meant Ken to her. She sorted them, put some in her trunk, laid others on the logs in the grate. Only a matter of time now. Nory had meant well with his plan, but it was getting them nowhere. Ken didn't even know that she was supposed to be caught in a violent flirtation with his best friend.

Ken would go to Hilltop House every day now, as he had gone over to Spring Garden when Puss Southwick was there. And one day after he had left she would write a little note—a friendly note, for she would take no bitter leaving!—and then she would pack her bag and go. Move over to Stonywall; try to find peace there, forget heartache.

It was only when she came up against the question of when that Eve's planning stood still. She could imagine no definite time for her departure, not even in her more courageous moments.

Ken returned early, came in looking rather eager, rather conscience-stricken. He found Eve sitting in the guest chamber darning a pair of his socks and stood there at her side a moment before he laid a florist's box on her lap, bent down and kissed the top of her head and moved away without a word.

Spring flowers in the box—jonquils, tulips, fragrant narcissus, all cool and dewy and sweet, midst green tissue wrappings. Eve held them to her face, wept over them before she could put them in water, carry them out to the living room.

"Thank you, Ken. Nice of you to think of me."

"I always think of you, Eve."

"Oh—"

"Nory insisted tactfully, gently, that the flirtation had not been given sufficient trial. 'What an impatient Giselida I picked for my pal! Use your very excellent thinking apparatus, my dear, and don't get panicky. Old Nory knows.'"

"What would I do without you, Nory?"

The deep look in his eyes wrapped her warmly, engendered, grew softly luminous before his gaze turned away.

He began to make a great point of having her help with his new story—kept her at this when she would have put it aside, insisted on her doing at least half the work.

"Our story, Eve. Fifty-fifty—fair enough, isn't it? Always wanted a collaborator but never expected such a charming one. A good reason for this. Besides it's pretty soft for me, sitting back and giving orders. Never had a story slide along so smoothly before."

Eve knew he meant it. Only when she was deep in this work could she forget her troubles, get the thought of Ken out of her mind. Accordingly she sought the most difficult tasks; poured over encyclopedias, the dictionary; studied Nory's characters until they were living, breathing people for her—so real she could hear what they would say, see their actions, expressions. She gave these visions to Nory and he painted his word portraits accordingly.

The night of the April fool party at the Pen and Brush Club Ken was finishing the last of the pictures for which Lilas was to pose.

"Sorry I can't take you over, Eve—d'you mind? Li is leaving in the morning—going to Atlantic City—and I've got to finish up this evening. Show up later if it's all right."

"Something in the dreary acquisition of this brought his head up sharply, his eyes widening in a look of hesitation, as if he were leaving. 'Sure you mean that? I'll stay—let the picture go hang.'"

"Oh, go on, Ken. I'll be all right." She managed to laugh and on an impulse ran across to him, gave him a butterfly kiss, ran back to the bedroom and her dressing still laughing though her eyes were brimming.

Nory took her to the party. He chuckled all the way, warned her not to be surprised at anything. And once in the club lounge he led her to the bulletin board before which a crowd was chattering excitedly.

They made way for Eve; she stood there looking at a jacket tacked to the board. The cover of Nory's new book. A mauve cover with the title in violet lettering, "Trained Seal," across the back. Beneath it the by-line, "Nprwood O'Rell." And beneath that, "And Evelyn Reade Wilmer."

She waited, staring, growing hot and cold by turns, uncertain whether to laugh or cry. And after a little Nory slipped an arm around her shoulders, led her away, whispering.

"Your book, too, dryad. Your book as much as mine. Don't look like that—so bowled over. Aren't you happy?"

"Of course, Nory. . . Yes. . ."

"Remember—every other dance with me. Raise the dust. . ."

"Yes, Nory. Every other dance. . ."

Kenneth had told Eve that he would show up at the club before party had really started and he fully intended to keep his promise. He even explained to Lilas when they had made the engagement for the evening over the telephone that he would have to hurry away. He let her know in a manner he considered very tactful that he would take it as a kindness if she would be ready for work the moment he arrived.

It was beginning to dawn upon Ken that Lilas gave very little consideration to his part of the job of putting her exotic self on paper; she seemed to look upon the artistic feature of the enterprise as exclusively her own, with Ken performing only a small and rather unimportant part of the work.

At first he had considered her possessive manner and her way of saying "my picture" very fascinating, but it had begun to irritate him of late, particularly when she would leave her pose to criticize, insist upon changes to those touches which stamped his work peculiarly his own.

There had been growing within him an uneasy feeling about his last couple of paintings. It seemed they lacked character—certainly they showed none of the bold dash of other things he had done. And it did not help his confidence that Wade received them without a word, studied them with eyes screwed together and pursed lips.

He told himself angrily that Wade was sore because he had refused to do the sketches. . . Well, he had a right to refuse. But this did not help the restlessness.

Ken had liked the sketches just at first. Had a whale of a good time putting them out. Eve had been for them—kept urging him on. She hadn't said anything about this of late. Come to think it over, Eve hadn't said much regarding his work for a long while. And she used to be bubbling over all the time. Sort of odd. Of course he had been rather beastly about her sending the sketches when he expected her to nail the other stuff instead. Was she holding a grudge about this? Women! Only that was not like Eve.

Ken was confused, vaguely ill humored when he arrived at Hilltop House. And it did not soothe him to find that Lilas had made no preparation for work. The maid took him to the dining room, where she was finishing dinner; she insisted that he wait while she drank a leisurely cup of coffee—made him join her, though she could see how impatient he was.

A chap couldn't do any too much at night at best. . . Why the dickens couldn't she have waited over a day? Not as if there were any reason for her rushing off. . .

Matters were no better when they went to the studio. Ken got ready the easel, arranged the lights, placed the massive high-backed chair in which she was to pose. And still she fussed before the mirror, wandered about lighting cigarettes, tossing them away, talking of things which had nothing to do with the picture, loitering near him. He never had thought Lilas a pawing person, but tonight he could have sworn that she wished to be kissed. Good Lord, couldn't she see this was serious business?

"Better get going, Li," he urged finally. "It's after nine."

She shrugged, moved over to the chair, seated herself. It took him less than five minutes to see that he could expect no help from her. She sat there indifferently, with the mocking little smile in her eyes, curving her too-red lips. . . What in the name of good sense did she paint her lips like that for, so they looked smeared and sticky? Eve never made such a mess of herself. . .

Over and over he tried to recapture his idealized concept of Lilas Allen—tried to dribble through his brush the enchantment she had meant to him. But the magic was gone. His work was lifeless.

WABEDO

A. H. Glandon of Boy River, a former resident of Wabedo, passed away Monday afternoon at the home of his grandson, Eugene Glandon. Mr. Glandon was in his usual health and in the afternoon asked his little great granddaughter to read a chapter from the Bible to him while he lay down to rest and when the chapter was finished the little girl looked up to see grandpa was asleep. A little later Mrs. Eugene Glandon went in and found that grandpa had passed away while sleeping. He leaves one brother, George Glandon, Sr., one son, George Glandon, Jr., three grandchildren and six great grandchildren to mourn his loss. His wife preceded him in death 18 years ago. His brother, George Glandon of Redox, Ia., came to attend the funeral. Funeral services were in the hall at Boy River and he was laid to rest beside his wife in the Remer cemetery Thursday morning. Mr. Glandon was 81 years and one month of age at the time of his death. He came to Minnesota 27 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Whitted went to Boy River Thursday to attend the funeral of Alex Glandon. They returned home Friday.

Joe Bruckmeyer spent Thursday evening at the Gust Zaskie home listening to the prize fight over the radio.

Pete Allen and Claude Whitted were at Frank Hardy's Thursday night and listened in on the radio.

Mrs. Fields and son Harvey of St. Paul came up Thursday to spend the summer at the Atwood cabin on Wabedo Lake.

Ralph Felton worked on Wm. Shepard's car Sunday.

The Paul Calrow family of St. Paul came on Saturday night to spend the summer at the Atwood cabin on Wabedo Lake.

Early Part of Speech

"Whilst" is the English form of the American while. It is an early form of the conjunction that survives in English literature. Shakespeare used it only sixteen times, but used while fifty-seven times.—Literary Digest.

Writers says every woman should be a queen of her own home. And, whether he should or not, every husband is a gentleman-in-waiting.—Arkansas Gazette.

After the First Twenty-five Thousand Miles

THE VALUE of sound design, good materials and careful craftsmanship is especially apparent in the new Ford after the first twenty-five thousand miles. Long, continuous service emphasizes its mechanical reliability and economy of operation and up-keep.

As you drive the Ford through many months and years you will develop an increasing pride in its appearance and a growing respect for the substantial worth that has been built into it. From every standpoint—in everything that goes to make a good automobile—you will know that you have made a far-seeing, satisfactory purchase.

Wherever you go, you hear enthusiastic praise of the car and this significant, oft-repeated phrase—"I'm glad I bought a Ford."

A FORD owner in New York tells of a 13,000-mile trip across the United States and back in sixty days and says "the car was extremely economical to operate, comfortable and speedy." A grateful father tells how the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield saved his wife and children from serious injury in an automobile collision.

To test tires, a large company drove a new Ford day and night, for an average of 500 miles every twenty-four hours. It was still giving satisfactory service after 105,000 miles.

A Ford car that had fallen into Fernan Lake was submerged for twelve days before being raised. After a new battery and carburetor bowl were installed, it was driven back to Spokane under its own power.

Many police departments have written of the special advantages of the Ford in crowded traffic because of its alert speed, acceleration and ease of control. An increasing number of fleet owners are also purchasing the Ford because their cost figures have given conclusive proof of its economy of operation and up-keep.

In addition to important triumphs in Germany, France and Italy, the Ford won six out of seven leading places in a contest in Finland, first and second in the Rafaela races in Argentina, first and second in the run from Copenhagen-to-Paris-to-Copenhagen, three gold medals in England, first ranking in the durability test over the tortuous Amancaes road in Peru, and first place in the 1930 reliability run conducted by the Royal Automobile Club of Sweden.

This contest was an exceptionally severe test of endurance and sturdy construction because it was held in the dead of winter and covered 600 miles of steady running over snow-covered country roads and mountainous hills.

1930 SEASON TO BE A RECORD YEAR IN AMERICAN SPORTS

GOLFERS AND TENNIS PLAYERS WINNING ABROAD

BOBBY JONES EXPECTED TO WIN BRITISH OPEN GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

IN HOCKEY BOSTON BRUINS DEFEATED BY MONTREAL LES CANADIENS

By DIXON STEWART (United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 13.—In sports this season and with 13 important competitions still to be decided, 1930 gives promise of becoming a record year for American success in international sport.

American golfers and tennis players, competing abroad, have accounted for the victories scored to date, but many of the remaining important competitions are scheduled in the United States.

Bobby Jones is expected to put the United States on the winning side of the ledger by winning the current British Open Golf Tournament and next week American tennis players will start the defense of three tennis titles won last year at Wimbledon.

The only major competition remaining to be contested on foreign soil is the Davis Cup matches and although France is an overwhelming favorite to retain the laurels won in 1927, the United States is conceded a better chance than in the past two years.

The United States' record in international competition this season follows:

Victories
Golf—United States Walker Cup team defeated England; Bobby Jones won the British amateur tournament; George Von Elm won the French amateur tournament; Bobby Jones won British Golf Illustrated tournament; United States women won team match with France.

Tennis—United States won Davis Cup zone matches with Canada and Mexico; Mrs. Helen Wills Moody won French hard court women's championship; Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Elizabeth Ryan won French hard court women's doubles championship; William Tilden II and Cillie Aussem, Germany, won French hard court mixed doubles championship; George Lott won Canadian indoor championship.

Defeats
Golf—United States women lost team match to England; Miss Glenna Collett lost to Diana Fishwick, England, in finals of British women's tournament; Leo Diegel lost to Abe Mitchell, England, in series for unofficial world professional championship; Dr. O. F. Willing lost to Rex Hartley, England, in play-off for English golf vase championship.

Tennis—United States women lost Wightman Cup matches to England; William Tilden II lost to Henri Cochet, in finals of French hard court men's championship.

Boxing—Jack Sharkey lost to Max Schmeling, Germany, in bout for the world heavyweight championship; Mushy Callahan lost world junior welterweight title to Jack (Kid) Berg, England.

Hockey—Boston Bruins defeated by Montreal Les Canadiens in Stanley Cup hockey series.

His Endeavors Thwarted
Visitor—Why didn't you try to keep out of jail?
Convict—I did, ma'am. And I got two months extra for resisting the police.—Stray Stories.

A Technicality
The Counselor—You've been indicted for attempted manslaughter.
The Prisoner—That oughta be easy to defend, cause it wasn't a man but a dame that I beat up.

WORM WILL TURN

First Girl—Why do you call him a worm?
Second Girl—When he passes me he always turns.

Changing the Cast
Politics has made us fret
As this rule it teaches:
Other orators we get
To make the same old speeches.

All Prepared for the Shock
Voice (over phone)—Madam, prepare yourself for a great shock. Your husband has been killed, and we are bringing his remains home.

THREE CLUBS OF EAST BATTLING FOR LEAGUE HONORS

BROOKLYN AND NEW YORK ARE EAST'S CANDIDATES IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

CHICAGO IS LONE CONTENDER FROM FAR SIDE OF THE ALLEGHENIES (By United Press)

Only two major league games were scheduled today and baseball fans paused to consider the results of the season's second intersectional competition and the prospects of pennant contenders in the two leagues.

The east won 60 of the 103 games played in the intersectional series that closed yesterday. Three eastern clubs—Philadelphia, New York and Washington—are battling for American League honors with Cleveland the only western representative.

Brooklyn and New York are the east's candidates in the National League, with Chicago the lone contender from the far side of the Alleghenies.

Cleveland and Philadelphia, in the American League, and New York and Pittsburgh in the National League, inaugurate a new series of intersectional competition today, while the other teams are idle. Tomorrow all of the eastern National league clubs move into the west and the western American League teams invade the Atlantic seaboard.

The American League race has developed into the closest battle of the past decade with a single game separating the four first division clubs. Philadelphia holds a one-game lead over New York, Cleveland and Washington which are in a virtual tie for second place, but the Athletics must defeat Cleveland today to hold the lead.

The Yankees climbed to second place for the first time this season by defeating Cleveland, 17 to 2.

A six-run assault on Firpo Marberry in the eighth inning gave the St. Louis Browns a 12 to 9 victory over Washington.

Boston made a clean sweep of its series with the Chicago White Sox, scoring six times in the first two innings and coasting to an 8 to 5 win, in the American League's only other scheduled game.

Rain kept the National League's four first division clubs idle.

The Boston Braves won a doubleheader from Cincinnati, 6 to 4 and 10 to 5.

Lefty O'Doul's single, scoring Southern in the tenth, gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 5 to 4 victory over Pittsburgh.

American Association Tabs

Kansas City, June 13.—Although Kansas City got 13 hits in their encounter with Louisville yesterday they were unable to garner more than two tallies and lost the series opener to the Colonels, 6 to 2.

St. Paul, June 13.—Columbus batters clouted out 19 safeties from the offerings of Harriss and Nekola yesterday and defeated St. Paul, 13 to 3. Eleven of the 13 runs were made in the first two innings.

Minneapolis, June 13.—Minneapolis staged off a four-run rally in the eighth inning here yesterday to take the series opener from Toledo, 8 to 6.

Milwaukee, June 13.—Jack Buvird hurled the Milwaukee Brewers to a 6 to 2 victory over Indianapolis here yesterday in the first of a three-game series.

St. Paul, June 13.—U.P.—W. J. Cahill, Brainerd, broke 91 pigeons in 100 shots to receive the championship trophy in the professional group of the Minnesota trapshooting championships conducted at the Fort Snelling range yesterday. Five new champions were awarded trophies after the day's shooting.

Almost Dead Language
The language of the pharaohs ceased to be officially used after the conquest of Egypt by Alexander the Great, 331 B. C., being supplanted by Greek, which was in turn superseded by Arabic, 1,000 years later, after the Moslem invasion. The Egyptian language lingered on among the people until the Fourteenth century, and is now only used in the liturgy of the Christian Coptic church.

Solar Surgery
From the earliest times sunlight has been considered an important aid in the preservation of health. The ancient Greeks and Romans exposed their naked bodies to the sun in the open air to recruit mental and physical energies. Exposure to the sun's rays was also adopted by the physicians of those times as a remedy for many afflictions, "especially dropsy, inflammation of the kidneys and paralysis."

PENNEYS WIN 10TH STRAIGHT CLASH

"CANNONBALL" WERNER HURLS TEAM TO 9-1 VICTORY OVER E. M. B. A.

"Cannonball" Werner pitched the J. C. Penney Co. kittenball team to their tenth straight victory in the city league last evening. Their latest victim was the E. M. B. A. squad. The score was 9 to 1.

Schuetz, the E. M. B. A. twirler, demonstrated that he is developing into a strong hurler, striking out six men. Werner fanned ten.

The features of the game were the running of the bases by Johnny Gubiou, the terrific hitting of Hautala, Cal Orth and "Cannonball" Werner and the fielding of Aro.

This week's feature will be the game between the Penneys and Byes Friday evening at the water tower grounds.

The abbreviation used for Ohio is "O." Apparently Oklahoma and Oregon do not object. But there are six states whose names begin with letters which are not the first letters of the names of any of the other states. These states are: Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Pennsylvania and Utah. Why not use D, F, G, L, P and U for the abbreviations in those cases? Also, West Virginia is the only "West" state. So why not simply use "W. V." instead of the usual "W. Va."? The only reason for abbreviations in the first place is the desire to save time and space. Then why not save all the time and space possible, or else use the full name? Why fuss with "Pa." and "Penn." and "Penna." when "P." would fill the bill?—Worcester Telegram.

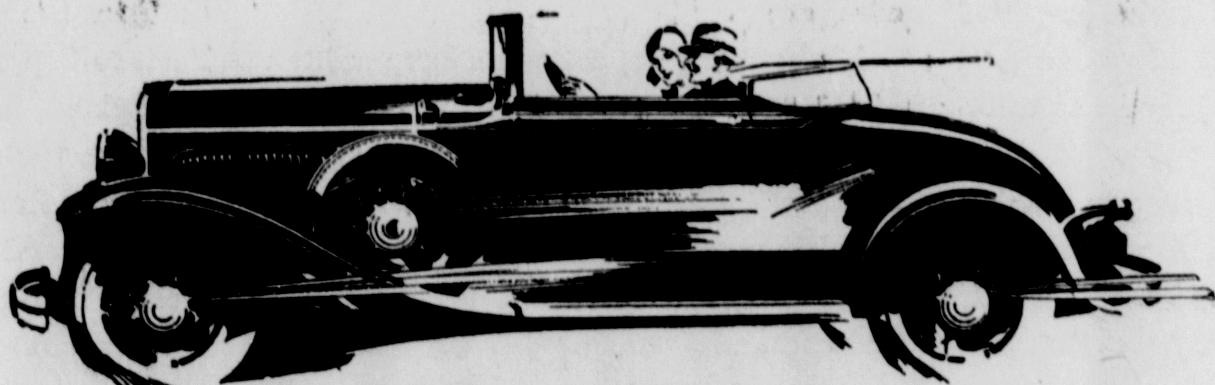

Columbus a Corsican?
Canon Castaing in a lecture at Mar-selles asserted that Columbus was a Corsican born at Calvi. He has made a long research into the life of the great explorer and maintains that he has found documentary evidence of the Corsican origin of Columbus. According to Canon Castaing, Columbus was the son of a wool carder and lived at Calvi until he was about ten years old. When Pierre Bonaparte visited Haiti, said the speaker, he discovered an inscription in Spanish on a rock, saying: "Cursed be the Corsican who brought us hither." This inscription, Canon Castaing believes, was written by Spanish navigators and referred to Columbus.—Pathfinder Magazine.

WE RAN an engine on 50 hour tests under exactly the same conditions with various brands of motor oil, including New Iso-Vis. At the end of each period every bit of carbon was removed and accurately measured.

New Iso-Vis actually deposited 50% less carbon than the average deposit of the better grade oils tested.

But this is only one of the results of the special refining process by which this new type oil is made. It lubricates effectively at low temperatures and all the way up to temperatures far beyond the highest on your gauge.

Moreover, New Iso-Vis is the only motor oil that will not thin out in your crankcase. New Iso-Vis is actually as heavy and oily when you drain it off as when you first put it in.

Any Standard Oil dealer or station attendant will drain your crankcase, flush and refill with New Iso-Vis.

ON THE LEFT is the carbon from New Iso-Vis in a fair comparison with that from other oils. This low carbon formation saves you money.

TOURIST PARK LEASE PROPOSED

Carl Wright to Present Same to Council and Park Board

PROVISIONS MADE PUBLIC

Short Term, Three Months, With Rental of $400, All Details Noted

A special meeting of the city council has been called for tomorrow evening at the council chambers at which time council members, the park board and Carl Wright will be in attendance to discuss his proposal to lease the City Tourist park.

The proposed lease as submitted by Mr. Wright carries these provisions: A lease of properties both real and personal, for a term beginning June 17, 1936, and ending on October 17, 1936, for which Mr. Wright agrees to pay $400 rent, being $200 on August 1, and to pay for all water and light used in the camp in excess of the sum of $65, to be paid monthly as it becomes due.

It is further agreed by and between Park Board and Mr. Wright that the Park Board shall retain control and supervision of all properties in said camp, and the lessee shall conduct and operate said camp in accord with the direction of the lessor and the lessee shall employ and maintain such caretakers and supervisors as shall be approved by the lessor, and the lessor shall determine and direct the hours of duty of said caretakers and supervisors, and said lessee shall conduct said camp in the manner as the said camp has been conducted by said lessor, and said camp shall at all times be open to the public and the following rates for use of properties in said camp shall be maintained as heretofore, that is, the sum of 50 cents per car for the privilege of camping for a period of one day and one night, the sum of 25 cents per car for camping in said camp for a period of one day, the sum not greater than $1.50 for the use of a cabin, as now furnished by the lessor, per day, and the said lessee shall in behalf of the lessor abide by and carry out the conditions and obligations of the lessor as provided in that certain contract made between the Clark Cottage Company of 419 E. 8th Street, St. Paul, and the Park Board of the City of Brainerd, said contract being dated April 20, 1928, and the lessee shall for the rates above provided permit the use in addition to the camping privileges and use of cabin without additional charge all the facilities now located in said camp including gas, baths, toilets, water, electricity, lounging room privileges.

It is further agreed by and between the parties hereto that the lessee shall not engage in any retail mercantile enterprise in said camp, and shall not permit mercantile advertising, and shall keep said camp including cottages, bath houses, lounging room, office and all other buildings on said premises in a good and clean condition, and maintain in as good condition and repair all of said buildings and property on said premises, as when taken by lessee, reasonable wear and tear and damage by the elements alone excepted.

It is further agreed by and between parties hereto, that no concession shall be used in said camp without the approval of the lessor and that no gambling devices or intoxicating liquor shall be permitted in said camp, and that the lessee shall not assign this lease or any part thereof, and that should said lessee fail to make payments as herein specified, and fail to fulfill any of the covenants herein contained, then and in that event it shall be lawful for the lessor to re-enter and take possession of all of the above rented premises and hold and enjoy the same without such re-entering working a forfeiture of rents to be paid and the covenants to be performed by said lessee for the full term of this lease.

It is believed that publicity accorded this proposed agreement may do much to still criticism. Opposition may have been due to the fact that the public is not fully aware of the provisions of the proposed lease.

Mr. Wright said the suggestion to lease the park was not originally his as he planned a separate cabin camp and it was suggested that it would work out better if it was operated under one head. The Park Board and Mr. Wright then took the matter up with the council.

The rental contract is for only a short three months period. At the recent council meeting where Mr. Wright made a proposal to rent the Tourist Park, Alderman W. J. Lyonsis counseled delay so that the proposed lease could be studied. Mr. Wright submitted his resignation from the Park Board to the mayor about a month ago.

LIBRARIANS GATHER

Mr. and Mrs. Guy O. Bacon and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fry expect to leave Saturday afternoon for Northfield to attend the Saturday evening and Sunday sessions of the fourth annual homecoming of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs, being held Saturday and Sunday.

Saturday evening there will be a parade led by the Cantons of Minnesota through the principal streets, and past the Odd Fellow home. At 9 o'clock there will be a grand ball at the armory, with a Twin City orchestra.

Sunday's program will include services at the Grove with Rev. W. A. Evans of the South St. Paul Presbyterian church delivering the sermon. The St. Paul Rebekah chorus will furnish the music. At 2:30 p. m. there will be a concert by the children's band. The Minneapolis Rebekah chorus and St. Paul Choral club will be on the program. The presentation of the Grand Lodge, Grand Encampment and Assembly officers will follow and Lieutenant Colonel Clemons, former national chaplain of the American Legion will deliver the address of the day.

COUNTRY CLUB DINNER SUCCESS

87 Served, Garden Flowers Used to Decorate Club House and Tables

The second Country club dinner of the season proved a great success last evening at the club house, with 87 in all being served. The weather during the day looked threatening, however, the evening was beautiful and proved a success in every respect.

Garden flowers were used to decorate the club house and a large bouquet was used on the table, making the interior especially attractive. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Dan Whitney, chairman, Mrs. C. L. Harnett, Mrs. R. E. Wyatt, Mrs. Harry Carlson, Mrs. W. C. Cobb, Mrs. E. O. Webb, Mrs. W. A. Erickson and Mrs. J. H. Kretschmer.

Next Tuesday, June 24 will be another ladies day at the Country club, and luncheon will be served at noon. Particulars will be given at a later date.

LADIES BAND STAGES PRE-CONTEST PARADE

Marches, Executes Maneuvers and Plays Several Selections in Business District

APPEAR IN NEW UNIFORMS

Will Leave Friday Morning to Compete Again in State Band Contest at St. Paul

Marching and maneuvering with a military technique and playing beautifully in a pre-contest parade on the downtown streets of Brainerd, the Brainerd Ladies Band last evening demonstrated its ability to represent this city in a most worthy manner at the State Band Contest at St. Paul the latter part of this week.

Playing a snappy march, the band marched south on Sixth Street to Laurel, where, led by the drum major, Mrs. Dixie Thompson, the organization executed a maneuver from marching formation to a circle in front of the Elks Hotel, where a short concert was given, led by Mrs. Winnifred Cronk Ziebell, the efficient director.

Again in marching formation, the band moved to Seventh and Laurel, playing several selections at the intersection, after which the organization marched to the Ransford hotel, played once more and finished their parade by returning down Sixth and west on Laurel to the city hall, the practice rooms.

The large audience was entirely captivated by the appearance and musical ability of the band, the new uniforms of crimson and white flannel with red tams and shoes to match bringing forth much favorable comment.

The band leaves Friday morning to compete as Brainerd's only entry in the State Band Contest at St. Paul, in which 40 bands are expected to compete, with a membership of 1,100 musicians. The parade is expected to be held at 5:30 P. M. Friday and will be broadcast over KSTP. Last year the ladies captured a beautiful cup as second place winners in the musical contest in Class C, in which they are again entered this year. Twelve of fourteen bands will compete in this class this year and competition is expected to be very keen.

Mrs. Dixie Thompson, who placed second against all drum majors last year, is again competing Friday evening.

SENATE CALLS FOR INVESTIGATION OF TARIFF BILL

SCANS RATES OF THE SMOOT-HAWLEY TARIFF MEASURE

SHOES, FURNITURE, CEMENT AND FARM UTENSILS CONSIDERED

Washington, June 18.—(UP)—The senate today directed the tariff commission to investigate, in effect, the rates of the new Smoot-Hawley tariff law on shoes, furniture, cement and farm utensils.

The Borah resolution calling for such an inquiry was suddenly adopted unanimously when republicans withdrew their objections.

An amendment was offered by Sen. Bingham, republican, Conn., to include netting in the list of commodities, concerning which the tariff commission was directed to ascertain the difference in cost of production at home and abroad.

The resolution was designed by Borah, head of the senate coalition forces, as an attack upon the rates of the new law which went into effect at midnight last night.

Borah and his supporters contend the rates are not founded upon the real difference in cost of production, but are excessive and will bring little benefit to the farmer.

Although Chairman Smoot of the finance committee was in the chamber, he offered no objection and there was no debate. Borah had been prepared to deliver an assault upon the bill's rates, but withheld his speech.

The resolution may prove the opening wedge in revising the rates of the new law under the flexible provision. If the commission finds the rates excessive, it can report to the president and require downward revision within a 50 per cent radius of the present rate.

Farm implements mentioned in the resolution included hoes, shovels, spades, scoops, forks, rakes, scythes, sickles, grass hooks, corn knives and drainage tools.

The commission is directed to make its report to the senate "at the earliest practicable date." The investigation is expected to require months.

Shoes and cement have been free, but under the provisions of the new law shoes will bear a 20 per cent duty and cement six cents per 100 pounds. Furniture rates are increased substantially and Borah has contended that the basket clause of the bill also will cause an increase on the farm implements named.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

THE PEPLUM AGAIN

We must wear peplums this spring. These saucy little ruffles are posed at the hips in all types of frocks, and are one of the most attractive things about the new styles. In this frock the peplum is posed over a deep circular flounce, following its dipping backward curve. The silhouette is softly molded by means of shirrings at the waistline and a collar is draped at the front under the applied panel and tied at the back. Even the sleeves have peplum ruffles! A printed georgette, voile, or batiste is smart made up in this pattern, or chiffon for formal wear.

Pictorial Printed Pattern No. 5234. Sizes 14 to 42, 55 cents.

Historic Railroad Spike

When the rails of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific railroads were united, composing the first transcontinental railway in America—a golden spike was used for the last spike. It was driven by Leland Stanford, president of the Central Pacific, and an official of the Union Pacific. The spike was immediately withdrawn and is preserved in the museum at Leland Stanford university.

DISPLEASED OVER ALLEGED INTRUSION

INTO BOLIVIAN AFFAIRS BY U. S. OFFICIALS AND CAPITALISTS

GROUP OF BOLIVIAN REBELS ALLEGED AMERICAN ACTIVITIES REASON FOR UPRISING

Buenos Aires, June 18.—(UP)—Displeasure over alleged intrusions into Bolivian affairs by United States officials and capitalists was given by a group of Bolivian rebels today as the reason for their uprising.

The revolution, headed by Roberto Hinojosa, formerly of the Bolivian diplomatic service, was reported to be on a small scale, and advice received here from border regions today indicated it was diminishing. Only southern Bolivia, near the Argentine border, was believed affected.

The rebels' grievances were outlined in a "declaration" attacking the activities of Americans in Bolivia, advices from the border said today.

Hinojosa and his followers captured Villazon, directly across the Argentine border from La Quiaca, after overpowering the garrison of 20 soldiers.

CITATION FOR HEARING ON FINAL ACCOUNT AND FOR DISTRIBUTION

No. 3360.

State of Minnesota, County of Crow Wing, ss., In Probate Court.

In the Matter of the Estate of Sylvester Washington Tomberlin, Decedent:

The State of Minnesota to all persons interested in the final account and distribution of the estate of said decedent: The representative of the above named decedent, having filed in this court his final account of the administration of the estate of said decedent, together with his petition praying for the adjustment and allowance of said final account and for distribution of the residue of said estate to the persons so entitled. Therefore, YOU and EACH OF YOU, are hereby cited and required to show cause, if any you have, before this court at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House at Brainerd, Crow Wing County, Minnesota, on the 23rd day of June, 1930, at 10 o'clock A. M., why said petition should not be granted.

WITNESS, The Judge of said Court, and the Seal of said Court, this 27th day of May, 1930.

newspaper accounts said. They looted the town and held the chief of police a prisoner. Four men were wounded when they resisted the revolutionists' attack.

The revolutionists then proceeded northward towards Tupiza, but they returned to Villazon this morning when they discovered a strong federal garrison at Tupiza, La Quiaca dispatches said.

Argentine police and troops were guarding the La Quiaca banks and customs house to prevent a possible attack. A small group of revolutionists was arrested at La Quiaca when they attempted to cross into Bolivia. Forty-six rifles, 20,000 rounds of ammunition and a trunk filled with communistic propaganda were seized. The propaganda appealed to the Bolivian army to begin a social revolution.

A censorship, which the Bolivian government imposed when Villazon was captured, prevented the free flow of news from that country.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

THE PEPLUM AGAIN

We must wear peplums this spring. These saucy little ruffles are posed at the hips in all types of frocks, and are one of the most attractive things about the new styles. In this frock the peplum is posed over a deep circular flounce, following its dipping backward curve. The silhouette is softly molded by means of shirrings at the waistline and a collar is draped at the front under the applied panel and tied at the back. Even the sleeves have peplum ruffles! A printed georgette, voile, or batiste is smart made up in this pattern, or chiffon for formal wear.

Historic Railroad Spike

When the rails of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific railroads were united, composing the first transcontinental railway in America—a golden spike was used for the last spike. It was driven by Leland Stanford, president of the Central Pacific, and an official of the Union Pacific. The spike was immediately withdrawn and is preserved in the museum at Leland Stanford university.

DISPLEASED OVER ALLEGED INTRUSION

INTO BOLIVIAN AFFAIRS BY U. S. OFFICIALS AND CAPITALISTS

GROUP OF BOLIVIAN REBELS ALLEGED AMERICAN ACTIVITIES REASON FOR UPRISING

Buenos Aires, June 18.—(AP)—Displeasure over alleged intrusions into Bolivian affairs by United States officials and capitalists was given by a group of Bolivian rebels today as a reason for their uprising.

The revolution, headed by Roberto Hinojosa, formerly of the Bolivian diplomatic service, was reported to be on a small scale, and advices received here from border regions today indicated it was diminishing. Only southern Bolivia, near the Argentine border, was believed affected.

The rebels' grievances were outlined in a "declaration" attacking the activities of Americans in Bolivia, advices from the border said today.

Hinojosa and his followers captured Villazon, directly across the Argentine border from La Quiaca, after overpowering the garrison of 20 soldiers.

CITATION FOR HEARING ON FINAL ACCOUNT AND FOR DISTRIBUTION

No. 3360
State of Minnesota, County of Crow Wing, ss., In Probate Court.

In the Matter of the Estate of Sylvester Washington Tomberlin, Decedent.
The State of Minnesota to all persons interested in the final account and distribution of the estate of said decedent: The representative of the above named decedent, having filed in this court his final account of the administration of the estate of said decedent, together with his petition praying for the adjustment and allowance of said final account and for distribution of the residue of said estate to the persons thereto entitled. Therefore, YOU, and EACH OF YOU, are hereby cited and required to show cause, if any you have, before this court at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House at Brainerd, Crow Wing County, Minnesota, on the 23rd day of June, 1930, at 10 o'clock A. M., why said petition should not be granted.

WITNESS, The Judge of said court, and the Seal of said Court, this 27th day of May, 1930.

(Probate Court Seal) L. B. KINDER, Judge of Probate.

newspaper accounts said. They looted the town and held the chief of police a prisoner. Four men were wounded when they resisted the revolutionists' attack.

The revolutionists then proceeded northward towards Tupiza, but they returned to Villazon this morning when they discovered a strong federal garrison at Tupiza, La Quiaca dispatches said.

Argentine police and troops were guarding the La Quiaca banks and customs house to prevent a possible attack. A small group of revolutionists was arrested at La Quiaca when they attempted to cross into Bolivia.

Forty-six rifles, 20,000 rounds of ammunition and a trunk filled with communistic propaganda were seized. The propaganda appealed to the Bolivian army to begin a social revolution.

A censorship, which the Bolivian government imposed when Villazon was captured, prevented the free flow of news from that country.
